TURKEY AGREES TO YIELD PART

Formal Note Sent to the Powers By Porte in Which Concessions Are Made.

DECLINES TO GIVE UP THE AEGEAN ISLANDS

Predictions of Peace Freely Made When Document Becomes Public.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 30 .- The formal reply of Turkey to the joint note of the great powers was presented to the foreign ambassadors here today. The porte proposes to give up to the allies part of Adrianople, Turkey to retain that portion of the town known as the Holy City, where the Moslem shrines are situ-

The note also declines to surrender the Aegean Islands, but proposes that the status and government of the islands be left to the powers. It also is suggested that the disposition of the 28,000 square miles of conquered territory in European Turkey be left to the powers.

Dictated By Bey.

The formal reply of Turkey to the powers was dictated by Enver ley and his advisers, and was delivered today by Mahmud Shefket Pasha, the young Turk grand visier. It was presented to the Austro-Hungarian embassador, and he at once communicated it to all the other ambassadors They telegraphed its provisions to heir governments and in a matter of nutes, all Europe knew that the urks had offered concessions and that rule bill, passed by the house of commons, is expected in the house of lords late tonight, when the last of the speakers will habe finished their debates.

After a recess of one day, speaking on the measure was resumed this afternoon. As it was a foregone conclusion that the lords would defeat the measure, and an it was equally certain that their rejection would be impotent to prevent the enactment of home rule, there was not much of a crowd to hear the debate. The peace delegates were in attendance and prominent members of the house of commons, including most of the Irish leaders, were given
